Dragon's Breath: Divers set new record
Dragon's Breath Cave, situated on the farm Harasub near Grootfontein and Tsumeb, is in the news again as divers recently set a new depth record by diving down to 155 meters, breaking the previous record of 131 meters. Together with Dantica Diving Adventures Namibia, the Scaphander team recently set a new record of 155 meters during a 9-hour dive and a 5-day expedition. The team consisted of divers Tom Beier, Markus Schuster, Ralf Wupper, and Johannes Schuster. The team was accompanied by a team of support staff and a team of photographers. Oti!-boer maak unieke 'kunsmis'
Johan Tromp van Inventec op Oti!waarongo se organiseer kunsmis wat hy van swakawol maak, lewer klaarbyklik ook uitskeurende resultate op diere, buiten vir die voordele wat dit vir groente- en vrugteplante inhou. Johan maak 'n vloeibare kunsmis van swakara wol - 'n produk wat andersins meestal as nuttelos beskos word omdat daar nie werklik 'n mark daarvoor bestaan nie. Hy het die unieke produk sowat vier jaar gelede ontwikkel het sedertdien toets by dit op verskeie maniere - die jongste is om dit in die drinkwater van skape en beeste op sy plaas naby Otavi te gooi. Hy het dit aanvanklik op twee ou hennes.

The story

Oh!SixSeven was started in June 2022 as an initiative to promote and share the stories of the #067valley. In November 2022, we launched the inaugural edition of the Oh!SixSeven newsletter, igniting the interest of many within the 067-area.

We identified a significant gap in the coverage provided by prominent local media when it comes to serving our rural areas. Oh!SixSeven is committed to bridging this divide.

The 067-valley encompasses the regions of Otjiwarongo, Tsumeb, Otavi, Grootfontein, Outjo, the Etosha National Park, Waterberg Plateau Park, Epupa, Kamanjab, Khorixas, and Kalkfeld.

This region is estimated to be inhabited by approximately 300,000 people and is widely recognized as the heart of agricultural production, hosting the maize triangle and serving as Namibia's primary cattle-producing area.
